Project: „La Cité du Vin”.

This building does not resemble any recognisable shape because it is an evocation of the soul of wine between the river and the city. Changing with the sunshine or the time of day, the building dialogues with the river through its reflections: there are very close parallels with a wine’s constantly changing appearance. This very distinctive shape causes you to look at the river running past from a different perspective. In the eyes of XTU, the main tour itself follows these flows: wine, the river, the flow of visitors. You pass through the building like a river, with visitors becoming voyagers flowing around the central staircase, perpetuating this impression of movement.

ARCH. ANOUK LEGENDRE

Partner – XTU
Architects, France

XTU wins the Réinventer.Paris competition for Paris Rive Gauche (M5A2) with the 'In Vivo' project, a manifesto for the innovative urban integration of nature and living matter with three buildings : the Tree House, the Plant House and the AlgoHouse (integrating a microalgae-producing biofacade for medical research)

XTU's architectural position is focused on the expression of an architecture carved in the shape of volumetries echoing the urban context and landscape. The form originates from the context, knowingly pictured in a minimalist, refined and futuristic way, inspired by abstract sculptors.

Project: " The Sainsbury Wellcome Centre for Neural Circuits and Behaviour"

The Sainsbury Wellcome Centre for Neural Circuits and Behaviour is a unique, world-class neuroscience research institute at University College London (UCL). The SWC was specifically designed 'from the inside out' to give the scientists working in different fields of neuroscience the chance to meet easily and to encourage informal conversations and collaborations. The SWC is one of the first buildings in the world designed to incorporate what neuroscience has learned about how the spaces in which we live and work affect our mood and behaviour..

Project: “„GREEN OASIS WADI AL DAWASIR””

The project “Green Oasis, New Town and Tradition of Land Use – Wadi Al Dawasir, Saudiarabien/ Saudi-Arabia” has been published in the book “City by Landscape”, 2013. The title of the presentation (see above) frames this project relative to the overall interest of Rainer Schmidt in research by design focusing on the philosophy “nature by culture”.

The Green Oasis of Wadi Al Dawasir is being developed in the middle of the desert as a new urban center for the Wadi Al Dawasir region. The existence of three wadis with their water resources is the main asset of this location, qualifying this site in the desert plain for agricultural use.

Project: „Fragments and places – working in Bucharest”

One of the most important and problematic aspects of nowadays Bucharest is the fast densification of the central area. Our project is looking for an appropriate answer to this problem. It tries to mediate between different sizes and densities, in a quite central neighborhood characterized by small streets, long, narrow plots and a puzzle of old and new buildings of all types and scales. The building searches to preserve, at its own scale, the porosity and "profoundness" of the deep, narrow plots, while also trying to capture part of the "collage"-like appearance of the surroundings.

Presentation “Platform of Arts and Creativity”

The buildings that make up the Municipal Market and the space defined by them, commonly referred to as “the square”, a name inherited from market square are, as a unit, characteristic elements of the urban landscape of the city of Guimarães. The grounds of the old municipal market boasted a privileged and very central location with excellent accesses, very close to the Toural Square and the historic center.
